Hir. McAllister was asked if it was true that he had made ill natured remarks about the wines and viands served at the dinners of certain well-known members of society, and particularly if he had complained in one instance of the Burgundy being served at the temperature of the wine cellar rather than that of the diving room.

"I refuse to answer that question," he said. He made the same reply to a number of questions relative to reports that Mrs. Wm. C. Whitney and Mrs. Stuyvesant Fieb had said that be was no longer society's erbiter. - N. Y. Herald.

Watched His Own House

Lither W. Benson, a Binghamton drummer, has begun a divorce suit at Seranton against his wife, Mary E. Benson. He says they were married in Castle Creek, Broome county. N. Y., in 1865, and lived together until 1868, when Benson learned that during his absence from home his wife was in the habit of making frequent j urneve to New York with a man who proteoded to be a great friend of Berson. One floo moreting in 1888, when Beneon had been away for several days, he returned before his wife was expecting him. It was dark, and Benon hid near his residence. At daybreak Benson saw the same man leave Mrs. Benson's apariments and steal away toward his boarding p'soc. Then Benson accused his wife of being unfaithful to him and told her that he wouldn't live with her any longer. He cays that she then told him that the somer he ceared out the better it would sait her, and that she put his clothing out of the bouse the same day and locked the doors against him. He has not spoken to her since, he says, and has not placed ble foot on the premises.

Besson also alleges that his wife tried to poison him twice before he left her. He was in the hati of drinking a cupful of hot was in the mail of drinking a copini of not was r after each meal, and one morning, when he started to sip the water, it tasted so bitter that he couldn't drink it. So he handed the cup to Mrs. Benson and asked her to take a swallow, and she flow it to a passion, refused to put the cup to her lipe, and purposed the contents into the clark. ALL KINDS OF LIQUOES,
